-Halloween stories are complete and the children will be sharing them with the class this week. They worked very hard and did an amazing job.

-In religion this week we will be discussing All Saints Day and All Souls Day. In our textbook we will be moving into a new chapter that focuses on God's covenant with his people. This reminds us God is calling us to do great things.

-Our next writing will be a short research project. The students will research a saint. Each student will choose a different saint. They will have an outline to assist them. It will be wonderful to learn more about our saints and how we can strive to be like them.

-Our math unit on multiplication will be completed this week. We will be reviewing and preparing for the test which will be on Monday, Nov. 4. Our next unit will focus on division.
