GREETINGS PARENTS!

Two more weeks left, WOW! This Thursday, May 15 is our "End of the Year " picnic from noon to 1PM on the upper playground. I am looking forward to spending this time with all of you.

Our theme this week is "Beach Week", to look forward to our summer break. Our large group activities will include an ocean process art craft using gold fish crackers, rainbow fish using tin foil and oil pastels, painting sea shells, saltwater painting and fish stamping. The books we will be reading are, "Pete at the Beach" by James Dean, "The Night Before Summer Vacation" by Natasha Wing and "This Beach is Loud" by Sammantha Cotterill.

In our small groups we will be playing the card game "Go Fish", reading the book "Ten Happy Whales" by Annie Auerbach and doing the the counting activities that are included in the book and exploring a sea life hands on specimen center.

Our spiritual lesson will be based on the book "Jack Giorgio, Future Priest" by Katie Warner. This book is special because Father Jim thought our preschool friends would enjoy it. It is a beautiful tale that emphasizes the heroic nature of the Catholic priesthood while celebrating and encouraging holy vocations.

Have a great week and please continue to pray for each other.

God Bless,
Teresa Evans
